Content

This course invites you to reflect on your own cultural identity against the framework of your new host country. It explores a range of cultural aspects of German culture, both on a need-to-know and a nice-to-know basis. It stimulates awareness of the perspectives and skills needed to manage your educational, personal and professional environment.

- Introduction to culture and intercultural competency
- The shaping of today's Germany: values, beliefs and assumptions
- Communication patterns and discourse management
- Practices and traditions in Germany

Learning outcomes

- Critical thinking on cultural assumptions and biases
- Enhanced knowledge of German culture
- Managing the German environment through appropriate interaction

Workload and Prerequisite for recognition of credit (CP):

Presence in all sessions + presentation in tandems/tridems.

After successful participation students will receive a certificate of attendance.
